

Did you get a new phone number or email address?

For people who get new phone numbers and/or email addresses, you need to contact the following list of people inside the gates and especially your banks and credit card companies. Phone numbers and email addresses are how important information can be communicated to you as quickly as possible (think security breaches, park notifications, unexpected purchases from your accounts etc.).

You should also update all of your important online accounts at Apple (iPad and iPhone), Microsoft (computer account logins for Windows 7, 8.1 and 10 and Onedrive), Google accounts for gmail and chrome browser and your mobile phone account (contacts and photo storage and Backup & Sync). In today's online world the list can get pretty long. Choose the "important" ones so that you can recover your lost password!

Loss of passwords to your banks and other important online accounts require you to confirm your identity with phone texted codes, emailed codes or answers to "security questions". Additionally, changes to "Online Security" is progressing into a "2 step verification" process world wide. This means that at some point in your future you will be required to fill in a code that will be sent to you via mobile phone text or email which is already pre-registered to your account. The "2 step verification" is to help keep you from getting your important accounts accessed and valuable information and money taken."
